DETAILED ACTION

Priority

1. Acknowledgment is made of applicant's claim for foreign priority based on an application filed in Republic of Korea on 04/20/2000. It is noted, however, that applicant has not filed a certified copy of the 21319/2000 application as required by 35 U.S.C. 119(b).
2. Examiner provided this statement in the previous Office Action. However, Applicant has failed to address this issue or provide a certified copy of the 21319/2000 application.

Claim Rejections – 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claims 1-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Farris (US 5,692,033).
4. In regards to claims 1, 8, 10, and 18, Farris discloses a method for identifying a calling party number of a switching system comprising: checking whether a termination subscriber has registered for a calling party number call-back service when a call set-up is requested; storing the terminated calling party number of an origination subscriber if the termination subscriber has registered for the calling party number call-back service; and announcing the stored calling party number if a calling party number confirming request is received from the termination subscriber (col. 11-12 lines 43-2).

5. In regards to claims 2 and 11, Farris discloses the method, wherein identifying a calling party number comprises: requesting a calling party number from the origination processing unit if the requested call is an intra-office call; checking whether a switching system of an intra-office is a single station when the calling party number is informed; and storing the calling party number informed by the origination processing unit in a data base if the switching system of an intra-office is a single station (col. 7 lines 29-41 and col. 11 lines 57-63).

6. In regards to claim 3, Farris discloses the method, wherein the calling party number is not stored if the terminal is busy (col. 7 lines 50-58 and col. 9 lines 32-37).

7. In regards to claims 4, 5, 12, 13, 19, and 20, Farris discloses the method, wherein storing a calling party number comprises: requesting a calling party number from the origination processing unit if the requested call is an intra-office call; checking whether a switching system of the intra-office is a multi-station when the calling party number is informed (col. 7 lines 29-41 and col. 11 lines 57-63); comparing an area code (collected dialed digits) of the calling party number informed by the origination processing unit and an area code (stored password) of its own office if the switching system of the intra-office is a multi-station; and storing only the calling party number if the two area codes are identical to each other or storing both the area code and the calling party number if the two area codes are different to each other (col. 13-14 lines 50-4).

8. In regards to claims 6, 7, 14, 15, and 17, Farris discloses the method, wherein announcing a calling party number comprises: sensing input of a code from a termination subscriber; checking whether the sensed code is a code for confirming the calling party number and announcing the calling party number of the origination subscriber stored in the memory in a predetermined form to the termination subscriber if the sensed code is a calling party number confirmation code (col. 12 lines 21-27 and col. 15 lines 12-32).

9. In regards to claims 9 and 16, Farris discloses the method, wherein when the calling party numbers are displayed on a display unit, each calling party number is assigned with a number sequentially (col. 11-12 lines 57-14).

Response to Arguments

10. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-20 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

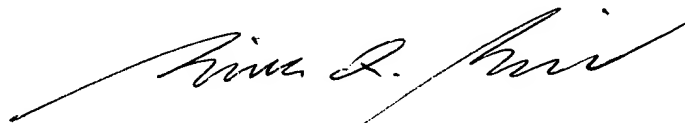

11. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Dunn et al (US 6,138,008) teach a method for completing a telephone call originating from a calling party to a called party. Suder et al (US 6,067,349) teach dialing using caller id.
